MIMOSA The MIMOSA pattern used in this product is adapted from a Luxfer Prism designed by Frank Lloyd Wright in 1897. The design was patented by the U. S. Patent Office as an example of electro-glazed art glass for the Luxfer Prism Company in Chicago, Illinois. This prism, with its geometric flower pattern composed of circles and squares, was the only one in a series of designs that was actually produced in glass.

HAVEN The HAVEN pattern used in this product is based on a concrete construction block with bas-relief designed by Frank Lloyd Wright for the John Storer House in Hollywood, California. The walls of the home were built using this textured block giving them the appearance of woven fabric with its play of light and shadow. The Storer house was built in the 1920's and appears futuristic to this day.

FELLOWSHIP The FELLOWSHIP pattern used in this product is adapted from a 1940's design by Frank Lloyd Wright that is his interpretation of an ancient Indian petroglyph found at Wright's winter estate and school, Taliesin West, in Scottsdale, Arizona. It reminded Wright of two hands clasping in the gesture of friendship.

"A love of the beautiful is the divine spark in the soul of man never to be extinguished." Frank Lloyd Wright, 1955
